

Requesting a final license file

The software license will be issued to the final environment (printers and copiers). So a hardware dongle is no longer needed. For creating the final license file we need a license request from the PC where the software will be used. To request the final license do the following steps:

1. Start the program "License manager"

The license manager can be started about the start menu
(sub folder "All programs" -> "COPYTRON" -> "Clicks" -> "Installation tools")

2. In the area "Request license" the buttons "Request" and "Save" are disabled at program start. After 2..3 seconds the program has detected the environment and activates the two buttons.

3. With the button "Request" a license can be requested immediately with the default local email program. The button opens a new email window with all needed data.

Alternatively a file called "LicenseRequest.txt" can be saved with the button "Save". This file can be send manually to info@copytron.org. We will create a final license and send it back to the requesting email address.
